Help For The Migrant — Part II

Corps Emphasizes Citizenship Training

(A TOWNSMAN News Feature)

It is easy to get indignant about the conditions under which migrant farm workers exist in some Massachusetts communities.

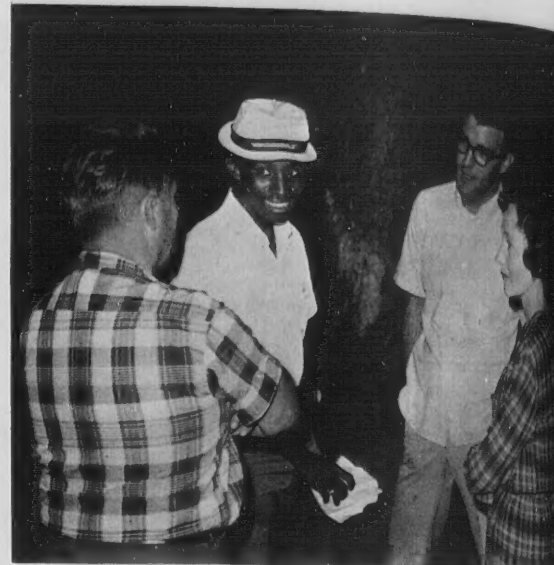

Once aware that in these comparatively civilized times there are still farmers who will keep a laborer at work in the fields 10, 12 and 13 hours seven days a week; who will forbid him to leave the premises without permission, even to visit friends at a nearby farm; who will resist attempts to improve living, educational and working conditions; who will provide decently habitable quarters for his men only if forced to do so; who will treat fellow U. S. citizens like automotons, pieces of equipment leased for the season — once aware of these things, it is impossible not to react.

Such conditions cause men like Father Gilbert Dube, the young priest who is Citizenship Technician for the Commonwealth Service Corps in this area to protest: "We are many years behind the times. Slavery is not dead on many farms."

Corpsmen span out from a district office at Phillips Academy to work with migrants on 17 farms in ten communities, Andover among them. In a few instances they have been rebuffed entirely. But not in Andover. Here they work with farmers who admittedly have varying degrees of enthusiasm for the project, but all of whom accept the fact that the Puerto Ricans they hire have a right to take what is offered in the way of language, health education and citizenship training. There are top notch farmers here, some who provide good quarters, contracts and decent wages without prodding. There are others, who for one reason and another, have different ideas about what is just and fair. And there are a few who are trying, but still cannot quite accept these men from a foreign speaking country as fellow citizens and equals as human beings. These are the conditions in Andover, as evaluated by Dan Worcester, director of the Service Corps operation here.

The Corpsmen
Among the 18 Corpsmen who work with Worcester (four of whom do not accept even the meager stipend allocated for SC volunteers) are four from Andover: Carol Couch, Chris Borrelli, Chris Prendergast and Lorraine Broderick, who is secretary at the Center.

FOUR INTERESTED persons discuss what the community can do to help Puerto Rican farm workers derive more satisfaction from their stay on the mainland. Left to right, Chad Graves from Christ Episcopal Church; Warren Young, a Phillips Academy student and Service Corps volunteer; and Rev. and Mrs. David E. Allen of Christ Church.

Additional staff functions are performed by Rev. Dube; Maria Reyes, a teacher who is language technician; Susan Berkowitz, a child development graduate student who serves as health technician; and Miguel Torres, a teacher's aide. Several doctors, nurses and ministers in the area also participate in the program along with 41 student volunteers from Phillips Academy.

What the Corpsmen do is tutor. One tutor per migrant.

The informal classes are held on the farms so that the Puerto Rican students, many of whom are quite shy and reluctant to demonstrate how very little English they know, can be at home with their surroundings. In this relaxed atmosphere the tutor and the migrant become friends and the learning process begins.

The Corps does not humiliate these grown men, many of them heads of households, by trotting out the traditional primer with its tales of Spot and Jane. Instead the staff turns out its own mimeographed readers, weaving information about citizenship, health care and everyday situations into the stories.

With physical conditions less a problem in many areas, the Corps has stepped up its emphasis on citizenship training, helping the Puerto Rican to understand that he has both rights and responsibilities. Rev. Dube and his staff try to teach the men that if they are contracted for their work guaranteed a reasonable season and a reasonable wage, they have been accorded respect by their employer.

They remind migrants that Puerto Rican law requires them to be contracted, arranging for their jobs through government channels so that they will receive $1.25 an hour, a minimum of 160 hours of work a month, workmen's compensation and medical insurance and Social Security along with the benefits of adequate housing and a season of specified length.

Latest excitement at the CO-OP is the installation of new delicatessen cases. This excitement works two ways.

1. These cases are exciting to our shoppers because of the many new goodies available for the first time. Among them are: assorted meats - all cut to order - including roast beef, corned beef, delicious hams, special German cuts, salami, meat balls; salads of various kinds; rolls; fried rice and stuffed cabbage; cheeses; puddings and assorted cheese cakes.

2. The new deli department is exciting to the CO-OP because the enthusiasm with which it has been received by the shopping public has exceeded our fondest hopes. Want to join the excitement? You owe it to yourself to

William G. Kurth Lawrence Retailer Buried Monday

William W. Kurth, 65, chairman of the board for A. B. Sutherland Lawrence, and a prominent water Lawrence business and leader, died Aug. 12 at Lawrence General Hospital. The North Andover resident was a graduate of Phillips Academy and Bowdoin College. With the Lawrence department since his graduation from Bowdoin in 1925, Mr. Kurth was also on the board of the Massachusetts Electric Co., Bay State Merchants National Bank, the Lawrence Cooperative Bank, the Lawrence Boys Club and the Automobile Club of Merrimack Valley. He was a member of many civic, social and business associations. In 1962 Mr. Kurth was honored Retailer of the Year by the Lawrence Retail Trade Board and more than one occasion he received recognition for his career retailing from the National Retail Merchants Assn. He is survived by his wife, Mel E. Sutherland Kurth; a son, William G. of Andover, president-manager of A. B. Sutherland; a daughter Mrs. Elizabeth K. MacFarland of Danvers; and six grandchildren. Funeral services were held Monday at Trinity Congregational Church, Lawrence, and burial was in West Parish Cemetery, Andover.

More than $3 billion a year is spent by the government in disposing of household junk. In 1920 the average person threw away 4.5 pounds of junk daily; now he throws away 4.5 pounds.

Heart Official Is Transferred

Herbert J. Hatem, M.D., president of Essex North Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Assn., reports that Charles H. Arnold, chapter executive for the past eleven years, has accepted a promotional transfer to Quincy effective September first.

In his new post, Arnold will be responsible for reorganizing three present chapters into a single new one serving a population of about 900,000. This is the first of several changes planned within the association, consolidating offices and personnel to achieve more efficient operation and improved quality of program service.

During the period 1955-1966, when Arnold was the only professional worker in Essex North Chapter, there has been a steady growth in the number of volunteers working in behalf of the Heart Association's educational, fund raising and community service programs. Not the least of accomplishments during these eleven years has been the raising of over $472,000, of which more than $200,000 was spent on research, $16,000 on equipment for care of cardiac patients in hospitals and $2,000 on specific professional education projects.

Arnold is a member of the Society of Heart Association Professional Staff. He plans to continue to live in West Newbury.

non-contract workers or arrange for such recruitment by men who function as spotters. In some instances farmers are unaware that Puerto Rican law forbids direct negotiation for help in this manner. And a number of these non-contract farmers do very nearly as well by their men as those who accept the responsibilities imposed by contracts. Nevertheless, the Corps urges migrants to insist upon the protection of a legal contract - and points out to farmers that they can benefit too from the contract system. For example: all workers who come here through authorized channels are required to have a physical examination which means that the farmer can be sure of getting men who are free of disease and physically capable of working through the season.

Added emphasis is being given this year also to the task of making townspeople aware that the migrants are here, that they stay for as long as eight months and that they need to experience some feeling of acceptance by the community.

SAAB FRONT WHEEL DRIVE!

SAAB pulls right through when the road throws you a curve. That's front wheel drive on the job. It's the same front wheel drive that pulls the Swedish SAAB through rough spots like sand and mud, slick spots like snow, ice, and rain-soaked roads. The same front wheel drive idea now being introduced in a high-priced sport-sedan from Detroit. SAAB costs less than half as much as the U.S. newcomer, has been moving right along on front wheel drive for sixteen years.

Prove to yourself what SAAB front wheel drive is all about.

forcing organized activities. Out of this has grown a Community Commission which is helping to spread interest in the needs of these men who come here to provide what the local economy has failed to produce - willing farm labor.

On the commission are Paul Cronin, a former Andover selectman and administrative aide to Congressman Bradford Morse; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mascola from North Andover; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kile of Andover; Lawrence Mello from Lowell Local 372, Retail Store Workers; Robert Mirisola, a summer resident in Andover; Tom Saunders, representing St. Robert Bellermino Church; Gerald Trull, a Tewksbury farmer; A. L. Loosigian and Sarkis Sarkisian, Andover farmers; Rev. Paul Keyes of St. Robert Bellermino Church; Mrs. Ethel Wilson and Atty. Edward Gordon of Andover.

These people are organized to make communities in this Service Corps district aware of the project and aware of the migrant as a person as well as to explore the question of what responsibilities the community has to these seasonal residents.

Three members of the group are to involve themselves with the preparation of legislation which would make migrant contracts a Commonwealth as well as a Puerto Rican requirement.

A commission has been organized for the migrants too, through which they can communicate their needs, make suggestions for improving the program, seek advice and - in general - communicate.

From a member of this commission has come written proof that encouraging the Puerto Rican to think of himself as an American citizen with rights and privileges can also make him aware that he too has responsibilities.

Discussing the newly formed commission in an unsolicited letter to the Spanish-language newspaper prepared at the Andover Center, one of the men from A. L. Loosigian's farm expressed his thoughts this way:

"... Soon we will have meetings where we will discuss many important problems. We will talk about the living conditions and also about the relationship of the farmers with the workers and the workers' relationship to the farmer. Then we will discuss something about the contracts in order to get together and then we'll know how to get along with each other.

"Well, we the workers many times have problems with the boss and many times they are easy to resolve. But sometimes we haven't read the contract and we don't know what it corresponds to and this is the motive for which we should read the contract. . . In order to know what to ask for . . . but also to know what the farmer can demand of us. Well, this is advice that a friend of yours gives to you . . . therefore, we can be like brothers and in this way it will be easier for us to resolve the problems and to be in accordance with our boss."

is just 14,580 square feet. It was not immediately realized when the project was first discussed that dimension requirements for the apartment development would be as great as 2,500 square feet per unit. Further study of the bylaw showed, however, that in certain situations the requirements are based on those established for the nearest abutting district which in this instance is a residential zone.

John Davidson, who is a partner with Phideos Dantos in Danton Realty, appeared before the Planning Board Monday to argue his case and try to enlist PB support for his appeal to the Zoning Board.

Other Hearings

Also scheduled for Sept. 1 is a hearing on the petition of Richard A. Mottolo, 120 N. Main St., who seeks permission to continue to operate a piggery in a single residence C, district.

He has been notified by Building Inspector Arthur Peatman that a piggery in that location violates zoning regulations. Peatman received a written complaint about the operation.

The appeals board has scheduled six other hearings for the same night, all set for 7:30 p.m. in the conference room at Town Hall.

They pertain to: The petition of Michael J. and Margaret D. Kannan, 9 Sherbourne St., for a variance to permit construction of a two story addition without sufficient side yard set-back.

The request of Ruth M. Whitehill for a variance to permit division of a lot at 33 Porter Rd. The petition of Hughes House Nursing Home Inc. for a special permit to build an addition to its Morton Street building.

The request of Walter Cleplik, 16 Maple Grove St., Melrose, for permission to divide a lot at Bellevue Road and Brown Street, leaving one parcel with insufficient frontage.

And from John J. Gaudet, 50 Rattlesnake Rd., a request for a variance to divide one lot into two, leaving both with insufficient frontage.

WEEKEND RETREAT

The Stigmatine Fathers will conduct a retreat for engaged couples the weekend of Sept. 2-4 at Espousal Retreat House, Waltham.

GL Centre Relocating

The Catholic Charities Centre will relocate its offices in the newly erected Community Service Centre for Greater Lawrence early in the fall. This completely modern building will provide a self-contained unit for the Centre and its clientele with a private setting geared to more adequate service for clientele. The building is readily accessible from all parts of Greater Lawrence and there is to be ample parking available.

The Centre was recently approved by the Boston University Graduate School of Social Work as a training placement center for graduate students pursuing advanced studies in the field of social work. Miss Margaret Sullivan, supervisor of casework services at the Centre, who is a member of the Academy of Certified Social Workers, has been named as faculty field director and will be working collaboratively with Boston University. Such a placement at the Centre will permit the Centre to share in new knowledge and research in social work undertaken by the University.

With expansion of its facilities, the Centre is expanding its adoption program and welcomes adoption applications.

The Centre is temporarily located at 1 Mill St., Lawrence and it is a member agency of the United Fund of Greater Lawrence.

Tourists Spend Freely In N. E.

July Vacation-Travel business in New England is ahead of vacation-travel business a year ago, according to a survey just released by the New England Council.

According to Russell H. Ireland, director of vacation-travel development for the Council, not only are resort and hotel managers reporting an increase in number of guests but the guests are spending at least as freely as one year ago.

The Council compiled its information from a survey to all member resorts and hotels and to a cross section of non-member resort hotels in New England. Of those responding, 79% reported their July business better than last year while 6% indicated to change. Fifteen percent said their business was off and gave a variety of reasons for the decline. A total of 83% indicated their guests are spending freely.

Library Patrons Donating Books As Living Memorials

The library is glad that more people are giving books as memorials. Several such gifts have been made in recent weeks. BEYOND THE ALPS, by Robert M. Coates has been given in memory of Charles Carleton Kimball who loved the Italian hill towns.

Mary Louise Smith's long-time interest in China is represented by the gift of THE SACRED BOOKS OF CONFUCIUS and an ANTHOLOGY OF CHINESE LITERATURE, edited by Cyril Birch.

As a memorial to Dorcas Markert, the members of the Tuesday Club donated money and suggested that it be spent for books about gardens and flower arrangements.

Subjects of great interest to her. Books purchased with their gift include: COMPLETE BOOK OF WEDDING FLOWERS AND DECORATIONS, THE FLOWER WORLD OF WILLIAMSBURG, MINIATURE PLANTS FOR HOME AND GARDEN, INDOOR GARDENING UNDER LIGHTS, CALIFORNIA DESERT WILDFLOWERS OF THE MEDITERRANEAN, HOLIDAY FLOWER ARRANGEMENTS, FLORA OF ALASKA AND ADJACENT CANADA.

Special Story Hour

Children of school age should save the date, Tuesday, Aug. 23 at 2 p.m. for they have a story telling treat in store for them. At that time, Miss Margaret Lane, librarian at the American Academy for Girls, Uskudar, Turkey, and former children's librarian at Memorial Hall Library, will tell some humorous Turkish Hodja stories.

On Vacation

Mrs. Margaret Berry, school and children's librarian has joined the ranks of vacationing library staff members. Assistant Librarian Jean Vint, has been vacationing in Canada and Head Shelves, Henry Wyatt in N.H.

Editorial Comment.

Something To Consider

Trying to unravel the mystery of why a man with a master's degree in education and 23 years of experience in management and personnel counseling is not qualified to be director of a welfare department the size of that operated in Andover is like trying to find out who cut a chunk from the chocolate cake two hours before Sunday dinner.

The acting director of State Civil Service says the education and experience requirements used as a basis for the decision that Stephen D. Bull must be relieved of his provisional appointment to the post are those of the Federal government, Department of Health, Education & Welfare.

HEW says this is true, the standards are Federal, but that the responsibility for interpreting them rests with the Massachusetts Civil Service director.

If you call the State Welfare Department with questions about whether or not it thinks a man with Bull's background is qualified or not, you are referred to the district office in Lawrence. And in Lawrence the director reports that he has nothing to do with deciding who is qualified to hold down a welfare job in his territory, that this job belongs to Civil Service.

If you persist by questioning: "Is this a desirable situation?" the answer is "No comment."

Bull's release is even more incomprehensible when you stumble on the information that there is such a shortage of qualified supervisory personnel for welfare positions that a Civil Service examination is to be given shortly to permit case workers who cannot meet the educational requirements to try for placement on an eligibility list. As of now, there is no such list through which the town can sift in search of a replacement for Stephen Bull.

It is difficult to quarrel with Federal and State efforts to see that properly qualified people hold down key welfare posts. It is amazing that the imposition of educational requirements is so recent a thing.

But one cannot help wondering why Civil Service is bent on such narrow interpretation of the requirements in a time when there is such a dramatic shortage of people who meet the precise qualifications.

If such inflexibility is typical, then it would seem to confirm the recent charge that State Civil Service is so involved with bureaucratic procedures that it cannot effectively administer a personnel program for people.

It is something for the Legislature's Blue Ribbon CS Commission to consider when it sits down to write recommendations for changes in the State's personnel system.

Still Inpalatable

Demands from the City of Lawrence that she be given the numerical edge on the governing board if a regional pollution abatement district is formed proved no more palatable to her would-be partners around a country club dinner table last week than they have in a long series of committee meetings held in less convivial surroundings.

Manager Richard Bowen didn't miss anything by refusing to sit in on the rehash. (Though it is our position that he should have gone this extra mile in an attempt to bring Andover, North Andover, Methuen and Lawrence closer together on such a vital issue.)

Nothing much came of the meeting except an agreement to meet again.

Perhaps by the time elected officials from the four municipalities meet again in North Andover, Lawrence will have examined the alternatives a bit more closely.

Lawrence needs the financial support she can get from her neighbors for construction of a filtration plant to purify the waters of the Merrimack. If it is important enough for her to have this support, then she must be prepared to sacrifice something — just like the partner in a budding corporation has to settle for a lesser share of stock if he contributes elbow grease in lieu of cash.

And for their part, Andover officials must be prepared to cast off the provincial notion that they cannot work with Lawrence politicians without being smothered. Pollution is a big problem and we cannot agree with those members of the Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee who suggest that Andover should pick up her marbles and go it alone rather than risk playing with the big boys.

If it is impossible to reach a compromise that protects the position of the smaller communities in the Greater Lawrence combine, such an independent move may prove necessary.

But the TOWNSMAN, for one, would hope that filtration plants are not going to spring up, like spite fences, all along the Merrimack.

A Good Move

The Selectmen have done well to throw their support behind House Bill 3919 which would make mandatory the use of electronic voting equipment in the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts has intended to mechanize the vote counting procedure for some time and until last year it looked like Secretary of State Kevin White was certain to recommend use of traditional voting machines.

One of the strongest voices raised in opposition to a legal requirement that all cities and towns purchase such machines has been that of Andover's town clerk, Irving O. Piper.

Knowing of the electronic alternative, and being convinced of its reliability, Piper has resisted any move to rush through approval of the voting machine as this state's solution to election night agonies.

He has been selfishly motivated. The town clerk knows that it would cost Andover $50,000 to $60,000 to equip its six precincts with voting machines. He knows too that Andover is threatened with having to take on the expense of added precincts, the population explosion being what it is.

For this reason Piper has been among those pushing for use of a system of speedy tabulation that would keep Andover's equipment cost to something like $10,000 and produce results at a speed that would eliminate the immediate need for additional precincts.

Punch card voting has some vocal opponents. Security and accuracy will be problems to contend with, they say. The argument that "security" will be impossible for computless communities that have to rely on commercial computer centers to count their punch cards is a weak one. Numerous banks and corporations — and even small businesses and professional men — now entrust their accounting procedures to centers operated by major banks and others. It should be a simple matter to arrange for security in excess of that normally supplied by such organizations.

As for accuracy: If we can trust computers with the solutions to problems that mean the lives of astronauts, in outer space, we should have some confidence in their ability to handle a simple job of tabulating.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the Townsman
A healthy bit of news came out of London recently. That Juries may convict or acquit a defendant by a majority vote. This is a very good step to improve Law & Order. If England can change her jury way of voting why can't America do the same? Here is a way to save money for the Taxpayer and make the law breaker more conscious of the consequences of the crime committed.

Our nine old men in Washington make the most astounding changes in our way of life by a majority vote, often by a one vote margin. So why can't the Jury Law be changed to the majority vote system? How about it, I'm all for it, are you? It needs effort and a postal card to your Representative or Congressman or Senator will help start the Jury system to change — after the fiasco of the recent trials in Massachusetts of some of our politics — it seems we are in need of the change.

MRS. WILLIAM JOSEPH GALLANT (Bachrach)

Gallant -- Cyr

Anne Marie Patricia Cyr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Cyr of Lawrence and William Joseph Gallant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gallant, 8 Upland Rd., were married Aug. 13 at Sacred Heart Church, Lawrence.

Rev. Victor Milot, S.M., performed the ceremony and a reception followed at the Rolling Green Motor Inn.
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a blue silk organza gown fashioned with a Bateau neckline and empire bodice outlined with Venise lace above an A-line skirt, a coat with semibell sleeves of matching lace and a chapel length train. A tapered Venise lace pillbox held her bouffant illusion veil. She carried a missal with stephanotis and Celia orchids.

The bride's sister, Mrs. James Lewis of Lawrence, was the matron of honor. She wore a Celeste blue empire gown with bishop sleeves and French embroidered detail at the waist. Her headpiece was a matching rosette. Her colonial bouquet was fashioned of white poms and diamond dot daisies.
Identically gowned were the bridesmaids, Miss Rosemary Gilmore of Waterbury, Conn., and Miss Jane Caron of South Dartmouth.

Miss Mary Anne Lewis of Lawrence, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a gown similar to the other attendants' with a white poms headpiece and carried a basket of the same flowers.

R. Paul Gallant of Yorktown, N. Y., was best man for his brother, the ushers were Kent Damon of Andover, Bradley Richards of Salem, N. H., and Daniel Grecoe and James Lewis, both of Lawrence.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cyr chose a melon pink silk ensemble with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a mint green crepe sheath with a bodice of Venise lace and matching accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Academy of Our Lady of Nazareth and Boston College School of Education. She is now a second grade teacher in the Gloucester School System.

Her husband is a graduate of Andover High School, Burdett College, Boston, and Curry College, Milton. He is employed as a sales representative by the United States Shoe Corp.

Following a wedding trip along the Maine coast, the couple will live in North Andover.

Smith - Masse

Marjorie Carol Masse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland P. Masse, 4 Yale Rd., and Ronald David
Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne
A. Smith, 12 Woodland St., Lawrence, were married at a double ring ceremony July 30 at St. Robert Bellarmine Church.

Rev. Paul T. Keyes officiated before the altar decorated with gladioli, mums and white stock.
The bride, escorted to the altar
by her father, was attired in a Blanchi gown of silk shantung styled with long tapered sleeves and portrait neckline, accented with overlays of Alencon lace and seed pearl motifs. The bell skirt, etched with Alencon lace echoes, featured a removable Camelot train attached at the shoulders with twin bows. Her four-tiered bou-fant veil of French silk illusion was attached to a silk shantung pillbox trimmed with seed pearls and bugle beads, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of shasta daisies and baby's breath surrounded with lemon leaves.

For her sister's wedding, the maid-of-honor, Miss Linda K.
Masse, wore a Blanchi Empire gown of silk organza over taffeta in carnation pink fashioned at waist, sleeves and hemline with inserts of ecru Val lace and petti-point embroidered bands. A matching head piece of ecru Val lace and illusion completed her ensemble.

Miss Deborah E. Jones, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid.
She wore a gown styled after that of the maid-of-honor in a deeper shade of crocus pink with matching headdress. They both carried Colonial bouquets of pink carnations and roses encircled with polished English ivy.

Edward A. Jones of Candia, N.H., cousin of the bride, was best man.
Serving as ushers were Richard Duarte of Pelham, N. H. and Richard Locke of Derry, N. H., friends of the groom.

Diegisser - Lynch

Alice Mary Lynch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lynch, 17 Vine St., and Fritz F. Diegisser, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Diegisser of Frankfurt, Germany, were married at a nuptial Mass in St. Augustine's Church July 16.

Rev. James A. Wenzel officiated. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie styled with a scoop neckline appliqued with lace. The bouffant skirt fell from a fitted bodice and was highlighted by a lace cathedral train. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a matching pill box and she carried a cascade of white daisies and baby's breath. The bride's sister, Miss Patricia Lynch, was maid of honor. Both she and Mrs. Laurence Lynch, patron of honor wore Empire gowns cut with blue lace bodices and blue-green chiffon over taffeta skirts.

The mother of the bride wore a mint green ensemble of lace over taffeta. Mrs. Diegisser chose a two-piece suit of champagne lace. Both wore white accessories.

Manfred Diegisser of Germany was best man for his brother and others were William Tammany of Andover, Laurence Lynch and J. Kevin Lynch, brothers of the bride. Following a reception at Briarcliff, the couple left for a wedding trip to Pennsylvania. They are making their home at 201 Salem St., Bradford.

The bride attended Andover High School and Salem State College where she graduated cum laude. She is a teacher in the Haverhill school system.

Mr. Diegisser is a graduate of a German trade school and is employed by International Telephone & Telegraph.

Cash Balance $50 Million

State Treasurer Robert O. Crane announced this week that at the end of July, the first month of fiscal 1967, Massachusetts had a cash balance in excess of 50 million dollars.

In his latest up-to-the-month report on the financial condition of the Commonwealth, Crane declared that July receipts totaled $188,796,191.72 and disbursements were $264,659,897.95.

Treasurer Crane's report shows the state's cash balance at the end of July as $51,470,373.76 as compared with the fiscal-year-end balance on June 30 at $127,334,053.99.

Beauty Experts

For the finest in beauty care and for hair stylists that cater to their patrons, visit Hilda's Hair Stylist, located in the Shawsheen Plaza in Andover. Mrs. Hilda Privitera, owner, and Miss Charlotte Gardella, manager, and their complete staff of seven accomplished hair stylists offer the following services: permanents by Eska, L'Oreal, Zotos, Breck, Realistic and Rilling; hair color by L'Oreal, Clairol and Revlon; also hair cutting, manicuring, facials, and wig sales and service, all of which you can enjoy in cool, air conditioned comfort.

The competent staff at Hilda's Hair Stylist consists of Mrs. Hilda Privitera, Miss Charlotte

Gardella, Mrs. Louise Hadad, Miss Joyce Silva, Miss Joyce Frasca, Miss Maria Napolitano and Miss Valerie Carpenter. They will give you the personal attention you desire in your beauty needs. Your permanent wave formula or color blend should be carefully filled like a precious prescription, and at Hilda's this rule is always followed, thus assuring you of complete satisfaction.

Unique styling is required for the career woman whose position frequently places her in the public eye. Her coiffure must be trim and neat, yet maintain its femininity at all times. Special care is given at Hilda's to see that these requirements are met. They invite you to stop in, get acquainted, and check their reasonable prices.

Mrs. Hilda Privitera opened her Hair Styling Salon five years ago with three competent hair stylists. Since then, she has increased her staff to seven hair stylists, to meet your needs and to offer fast, expert, and courteous service in all types of beauty care. Hilda's is well known to be the first in this area to go into a shopping center, where ample parking is available, and also the first to offer convenient walk-in service.

Hilda's Hair Stylist in Shawsheen Plaza, Andover, is open on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday from 9 A.M. to 6 p.m., and on Thursday and Friday from 9 A.M. to 9 P.M. Call 475-2531 for an appointment or walk in any time.

Officials Deadlocked On Key Clean-Up Issue

Greater Lawrence officials "have come to a kind of deadlock" on one of the key issues to be resolved before any joint program for pollution abatement can be undertaken.

Selectman Robert A. Watters reported following a dinner held at Andover Country Club Thursday that the City of Lawrence is sticking to her position that if a pollution district is formed, she should have two representatives on the governing board.

Watters said Mayor Daniel P. Kiley told a gathering of elected officials from Andover, North Andover, Methuen and Lawrence that he and the city's four aldermen feel Lawrence should have two votes on the board if she is to bear more than half the cost of constructing a $21 million filtration plant and a similar share of the operating budget.

"The City of Lawrence seems quite adamant on this issue," Watters said. He added that Andover, North Andover and Methuen continue to take the position that representation should be on a one to one basis. Spokesmen for these communities feel that Lawrence could swing control of the board if the smaller towns did not have equal footing.

Selectmen and aldermen from Greater Lawrence met Thursday upon invitation of Mayor Kiley, who said he called the meeting to "expedite" consideration of proposed legislation of the proposed pollution control district.

These officials have had in their hands for some weeks the nearest thing to a piece of compromise legislation that members of the pollution committee have been able to agree upon.

Andover, however, is the only community involved to react to the draft and state the conditions that must prevail if it is to join in a district effort. At a meeting the week of June 30, members of the Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee voted to keep the door open for discussion of the regional approach to purifying the Merrimack, but they stated that three items must be settled to its satisfaction:

- Andover does not agree with the proposed formula for capital apportionment which sets this town's share of the filtration plant construction costs at $1.98 million.
- Andover favors one-for-one representation.
- And officials here want operating costs apportioned on the basis of continuous metering of the flow of wastes instead of in terms of the number of users.

Selectman Watters said this week that all seemed to agree on this third item.

But the general opinion is that none of the four partners will back down on the representation issue in time for a second meeting which is to be held next month in North Andover.

This being the case, Watters asks "What happens now?" Since EDA funds for pollution control are to be allocated to regions only, the selectman is wondering if the State or Federal government will step in to settle the representation argument.

Manager Richard Bowen declined an invitation to attend the Kiley dinner because he felt any new thinking on the question should be reported through the committee as a response to the draft legislation.

The Mayor, on the other hand, said the committee schedule called for a meeting of officials as one step in the procedure and that he simply took the initiative in calling it.

Manager Bowen said following the meeting that he takes exception to two statements made in daily press reports of the event:

One said that neither the Lawrence city council nor the various selectmen involved have taken any official stand on the proposed pollution legislation. Bowen said that the Andover board indicated clearly in June that it would recommend against creation of a pollution control district if certain specified points were not cleared up to its satisfaction.

He said further that the comment that he has recommended that Andover finance its own filtration facility is not accurate.

The manager says that he has, in fact, warned against any premature decision to go it alone. He takes the position that a savings of $2 million (the difference between Andover's share in a district and private project) should not be dismissed lightly.

Bowen adds that before any final draft of legislation can be considered, one question must be raised that has been left hanging. Federal government will eventually require that cities and towns stop dumping storm drain wastes as well as sewage in the nation's waterways.

Since neither Andover nor North Andover dumps such wastes into the Merrimack, Bowen feels it should be spelled out now that they should not have to support construction of a plant addition for this purpose or share in any added operating costs.
